October 30, 2015

Greetings to all 3B families!!

This has been another great week in 3B!

Thank you to all that have signed up for a conference time next week! This is such an important part of your child's learning. I will be using their self-reflection, which they will complete at the beginning of next week, as the starting point. But please come with any questions or concerns to discuss too!

This week we completed our measuring of the "beanstalk" using both inches and centimeters, and a line plot for gathering and analyzing this data. We began rounding numbers as more place value work. The students also began solving addition and subtraction problems with at least two strategies. Next week we investigate counting and comparing money, and making change.

The children used the beanstalk for a narrative subject. They are VERY excited about this writing. Hopefully they will be hanging with their beanstalks when you come for your conference!!!

The body science unit continues with learning about skin, muscles, and the lungs. I have posted the pictures from today's inquiry activity on the blog!! We also began our "River wRiting" today with a hike to the river. Children write in the first person as they do in TOOLS and then share their writing!!!
